

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Dr. Ayouba Lawani holds a doctorate in philosophy and teaches in the department of philosophy at Abomey-Calavi University in the Republic of Benin. Dr. Lawani's current research focuses on the theme of the philosophy of history (Kant, Hegel, Nietzsche), historical and anthropological mutations in philosophy.

Dr. Bedia Jean-Fernand received his doctorate from Michel Montaigne University at Bordeaux III (France). Dr. Bedia teaches comparative literature at Alassane Ouattara University at Bouake in Cote d'Ivoire. Also holder of a doctorate in Information Sciences and Communication, Bedia is a fellow at CLARE and also teaches at the UNESCO Chair on Culture of Peace at the Felix Houphouet-Boigny University at Abidjan. He published extensively in the area of African literature and comparative literature. His publications include Les écritures africaines face à la logique actuelle du comparatisme (2012) and Ahmadou Kourouma : Romancier de la politique africaine (2014) both published by L'Harmattan

Amah Nathalie Kouamé is a doctoral candidate working on Francophone African literatures at the French and francophone Studies at the Alassane Ouattara University at Bouake in Côte d'Ivoire. Working on issues of wars and genocide in literature is, among other, her research interest.

Dr. Konate A. Siendou holds a Ph.D. in Comparative Literature from Binghamton University in upstate New York. He specialized in African and African-American literatures and cultures, and in translation studies. He teaches African and American Studies, and Comparative Literature in the English department at the Felix Houphouet-Boigny University (ex-University of Cocody) at Abidjan, Cote d'Ivoire (Ivory Coast). His publications are in the area of Afro-American and African literature, African Films, oral literature in Africa, and translation studies. Dr. Konate is a published poet. His other book publications include a translation titled An African Gaze at Latin American with Editions Inidaf in 2015. Dr. Konate is author of "French (Neo-)Colonialism in (West)Africa: Revisiting Jean-Jacques Annaud's Noirs et Blancs en Couleur (1976)." West Africa Review in 2012, "Revisiting the African Revolutionary Praxis in the Global Era" In Indigenous Discourses on Knowledge and Development in Africa. Eds. Edward Shizha and Ali Abdi. London: Routledge, 2014: 201-214.